ISCAPRIVI OUT?

Resignation of Bismarck's Successor Announced in Berlin.

The Kaiser's Change of Views on the Education Bill the Cause.

OTHER WITHDRAWALS FROM THE CABINET SEEN PROBABLE.

The Public Career of the German Chancellor—Important Measures Which He Has Championed—His Bitter Struggle Against Herr Miguel—Schooled as a Military Man, He Has Shown Great Qualities as a Statesman.

Berlin, March 16.—The announcement is made this afternoon that Chancellor Von Bismarck has resigned. This report has not been officially confirmed.

It has been learned that all the Prussian Ministers did not attend the Cabinet meeting to-day. Count Von Zeditz-Trutzschler, Minister of Ecclesiastical Affairs was not present, neither did he attend the meeting of the Cabinet yesterday. The fact is taken to-day to support the report that the Kaiser is about to resign his office. Further support of this report is adduced from a letter he has written to the chairman of the committee having the primary education bill under consideration, in which he criticizes the method of the gentlemen who are behind the proposed sittings of the committee to-morrow.

A later statement in regard to the Cabinet council of yesterday is to the effect that the Kaiser had accepted a proposal made by the Gend-Jury to pass it by the end of the session, both of facts and individuals. The Kaiser called the Gend-Jury and the Alderman was engaged in bringing measures through the Council was devised and put into execution by the Gend-Jury.

The following statement is officially issued by the gentlemen who are behind the proposed sittings of the committee to-morrow.

The Kaiser, with emphasis and in a manner that was offensive to his critics, refused to accept the suggestion of Thompson, Caprivi and Minister Zeditz. It is said offered their resignations. The Kaiser made no remark in reply to the offer. It is believed, however, that he will accept the resignation of Zeditz and refuse that of Caprivi.

The report of the Chancellor's resignation has excited the greatest sensation throughout the city, and crowds throng the Under-Landes-districting office, while the railroads company a valuable franchise, received 6 affirmative and 8 negative votes. The Alderman was engaged in bringing measures through the Council was devised and put into execution by the Gend-Jury.

It is understood that Caprivi has substantially stated in the Landtag that he would stand by the bill, and that it was felt bound in honor to do so.

The immediate cause of Caprivi's resignation is said to be that, at the cabinet meeting to-day, the Emperor, who stated that he favored a material modification of the education bill. As Caprivi had substantially stated in the Landtag that he would stand by the bill, and that it was felt bound in honor to do so.

Commenting editorially upon the statements regarding the indictment of certain officials, he says it is evident that the tortuous history of a number of corrupt deals carried through the country will be exposed and those who engineered them will be brought to justice.

The Kaiser's choice may either to favor the bill through as it stands or to accept Caprivi's resignation. The Kaiser, it is thought, may insist upon the Chancellor remaining, and call upon the Conservative and Ultramontane combination in the Landtag to pass the bill.

Caprivi was tendered the Chancellorship of the German Empire upon the enforced retirement of Prince Bismarck on March 13.

He accepted the office, and the German Union was largely the work of Caprivi, and stamped its author as the State's Attorney and then an adjournment until to-morrow.

For a long time it has been known that there was a wide divergence of views between the Emperor and Caprivi upon many important matters of state policy.

The final disagreement began over the Emperor's plan to construct a canal connecting the Baltic with the North Sea, and projected the building of a fleet of colossal ironclads, with a view to making Germany a naval power, and with Russia.

Caprivi disapproved of the plan, and finally reluctantly refused to endorse it.

The Emperor, it is said, was not able to induce Caprivi to resign. He had the Emperor received the notice of his Chancellor's resignation, he entreated him to remain, and but two hours before the Chancellor left for the Reichstag, he entreated Caprivi to retract his resignation in view of the new difficulties that had arisen in the Government.

After a half hour's conference, Caprivi reluctantly consented to accept the office. The Emperor, however, regained his pristine influence with the Emperor. He was, in fact, largely superseded by the Minister of Finance, and sometime burgomaster of Frankfurt, whom an impressionable member of the cabinet, describes as "slippery as an eel, an astute parliamentarian, and the foremost of naval financiers."

Niguel, influenced over the Emperor increased alarmingly after Caprivi's ineffectual resignation, and he, too, resigned.

Recently, however, the Finance Minister has lost apparently some of his influence, and has been given a seat in State affairs, favors only his own plans, and is also his own Chancellor.

More recently, though, he has been compelled, moreover, by Miguel's endeavors to make the most of his popularity at court and outside, to give up the Chancellorship.

The two Ministers resulted, and Miguel has opposed in the Cabinet every proposition that the Emperor caused listening attentively to the words of either, and when he sought audience with the Emperor, he was received by the commander of the Garde de Corps. The intentions and aspirations of the latter are easily discernible, though, that he does not aspire to Cabinet honors.

For some time Prince Hohenlohe has been sick of his possible accession to the crown, and he, too, has resigned. Recently, however, the Finance Minister has lost apparently some of his influence, and has been given a seat in State affairs, favors only his own plans, and is also his own Chancellor.

More recently, though, he has been compelled, there to accept the uncertain and thankless task of the Chancellor.

Those best informed on the relations existing between the Emperor and his advisers say that Caprivi's resignation should be accepted, his successor should probably be Herr Miguel.

Several statements which reflect the opinion of Miguel's wings of the party have recently published strong denials of the truth of the Miguel's opposition to the education bill were based on ungrounded grounds.

He objected, they said, to the bill as proposed, that the bill, which stipulated that if the control of the School Education and Administrative Committee the clergy, and especially the paragraph dealing with the right of parents to ask any sect recognized by the State, to submit their children to the care of the State's religious institutions.

Reference to the latter paragraph was given to the School Bill Commission of the Landtag, but the bill was referred to the regular sequence, but has deferred all consideration of it until the rest of the bill should have been disposed of.

CHICAGO BOODLERS

The Grand-Jury Investigating the Transactions of Alderman.

CHICAGO, Ill., March 18.—At last the rumors or boodle in connection with the granting of valuable franchises to corporations by the city legislature seem to be taking definite shape. The acts of certain Aldermen, whose names have not yet been made public, it is said, to-day, will be the subject of investigation by the Grand-Jury.

The following statement is officially issued by the gentlemen who are behind the proposed sittings of the committee to-morrow.

The investigation begun by the Grand-Jury contemplates a certain scrutiny of the methods employed by the Economic Gas, the Northern Pacific and the Commercial Air ordinances, as well as the bill to be presented by the Gend-Jury is not limited to the confessions of the Aldermen, but extends to the members of the bar, both of facts and individuals.

The Alderman was engaged in bringing measures through the Council was devised and put into execution by the Gend-Jury.

Robert Buchanan writes: "This execution has been a complete success."

The grand jury, commenting on the execution of the poachers, says: "The calous folly of Home Secretary Matthews Criticised—British Topics—Anniversary of the French Commune—Paris to Be Well Represented at the World's Fair—General Foreign News—Briefs."

London, March 18.—Mr. John McCarthy presided at a banquet this evening in this city, in celebration of St. Patrick's day. In responding to the toast, "Ireland a Nation," Mr. McCarthy made a sympathetic reference to the late Charles Stewart Parnell. In the course of his remarks Mr. McCarthy predicted that the friends of Ireland in the English Democracy would soon enable the Nationalists to attain the objects for which they had so long and so earnestly and so fervently struggled—the recognition of Irish nationality.

The Parnellite members of the House of Commons have a separate celebration of the great national holiday. They also observed the feast of their patron saint with a banquet, at Mr. John E. Redmond, the Parnellite leader, presided. A list of patriotic names was presented for the occasion, and appropriate speeches were made.

Deputy Wurtzberger Attends the Grand-Jury Session.

WITNESSES EXAMINED IN THE DRAM-SHOP LICENSE INVESTIGATION.

Mrs. F. H. Ingalls and Two Other Witnesses Appear Before the Grand-Jury and Testify—Twenty-Five Witnesses Summoned for To-Morrow—Probability of an Unexpected Close, a Report and the Discharge of the Jury.

The Grand-jury continued its investigation of the dramshop license department of Collector Zieggenhein's office day by day the examination of four witnesses, whose evidence bore upon the subject. The body has summoned about twenty-five others, who are to appear before it to-morrow. It is stated that other specific charges, with the names of witnesses accompanying, are preferred before the Grand-jury in the meantime, it is believed the investigation will close with to-morrow's work.

The Grand-jury is, it is stated, paying no attention to published charges against Collector Zieggenhein's administration of the dramshop license department, and will not summon any of the witnesses whose names have already been given in the Post-Dispatch unless in support of specific charges preferred by citizens. The court will get witness in the present investigation before the Grand-jury is either for citizens, to make such complaints and give a list of witnesses who will testify to the facts, or for witnesses themselves to appear before the body and testify to that they have come under their knowledge.

DEPUTY WURTZBERGER ON HAND.

The Grand-jury was aided in its investigation day by day by the presence of James Wurtzberger, the indispensable deputy of Collector Zieggenhein's office, who has charge of the dramshop license department. Mr. Wurtzberger was present throughout the session, and when Post-Dispatch reporter visited Assistant Circuit Attorney Zachritz's office after the session was ended, Deputy Wurtzberger was found in close and apparently pleasant conversation with the Grand-jury's legal adviser.

"Were you a witness before the Grand-jury, Mr. Wurtzberger?" the Czar's aide-de-camp was asked.

"Yes, I did, to decide to state," replied the dramshop deputy with a complacent smile. "You know I am sworn not to divulge the secrets of the Grand-jury room."

"I will state for him," said Assistant Circuit Attorney Zachritz, "that Mr. Wurtzberger was not a witness before the Grand-jury."

The active deputy of the Collector's personal staff accepted this statement without comment, and in some cases, for some reason, he was present during the Grand-jury investigation, and it was his duty to explain to the members of that body for explanations of certain points that had arisen during to-day's work.

"WHAT WITNESS."

"What witness was examined to-day?"

Mr. Zachritz was asked.

"Well, I suppose it is right for me to tell you that I made the Assistant Circuit Attorney, but I am not allowed to state in what case he testified."

"Oh, because it was necessary. There is no use in giving Wurtzberger a deal because he has got it."

Deputy Wurtzberger seemed to endorse this suggestion heartily. He was in a good mood, however, and his manner was frank and every mention of the word "testimony" was followed by a hearty laugh.

"What was done definitely to-day, Mr. Zachritz?"

"I cannot answer."

"What line has the investigation taken?"

"I can't answer that?"

"Is there anyone other than that can be reported?"

"Only this that the Grand-jury has given me of twenty-five witnesses whom they want submitted to testify in this investigation."

"What will these witnesses testify?"

"I think to-morrow, if I can get them all here. We will try to have them on hand to-morrow."

"How long will the investigation continue?"

"I cannot say. This much I will tell you, however, that while there wasn't much accomplished to-day, to-morrow will be better. The Grand-jury will be right in the middle of the things then, and they will take the bull by the horns."

MAY END TO-MORROW.

Assistant Circuit Attorney Zachritz stated positively and emphatically that the Grand-jury's investigation of dramshop license matters would certainly be finished to-morrow, and that the grand jury would report and be discharged accordingly.

There was no explanation given of this abrupt and sudden withdrawal of the investigation which it was thought would continue a week at least. The grand jury, after two days of hurried examination of witnesses, will certainly be anxiously awaited by the public, to see, however, if the voluntary attendance of other witnesses to-morrow may cause the investigation to be prolonged and to go deeper into the subject.

NOT FOSTERED BY ANHEUSER-BUSCH.

MISTAKEN IMPRESSION ABOUT THE BREWERY'S CONNECTION WITH A SALOON.

In their placing of the blame for the maintenance of the little saloon at Grand Avenue and Manchester road the remonstrating property owners of that block do a great injustice to the Anheuser-Busch Company.

The only connection the Anheuser-Busch Co. has with the place, it is now learned, is that they sold beer to one of its former proprietors, a Mr. Crane, and that since the burning down of the saloon the property, to take the owner of the same, to take a lease on it when rebuilt, provided he, the owner, would sell the place to the legal持人 of the Anheuser-Busch Co. It declined to do so, and the saloon was never rebuilt.

The first witness called was Albert Deemling, brother of the Anheuser-Busch Co., who was present to testify in the case.

READY TO REPORT.

The Smoke Nuisance Investigating Committee Primed With Facts.

WHILE THEY WILL RECOMMEND MUCH
THEY HAVE NO POSITIVE SOLUTION.

Information on the Great Problem Which Will Be Presented To-Night at the Mercantile Club—Suggestions to Be Offered—What Smoke Is—A Scientific View.

At a meeting to be held at the Mercantile Club this evening at 8 o'clock Mr. E. D. Meier will read a paper on the subject of smoke prevention.

About eighteen months ago when the smoke consumption question was being agitated here a meeting was held at Mercantile Club when it was decided that something must be done to abate the smoke nuisance. The city of the Merchants' Exchange, the Mercantile Club were all interested and a committee was appointed, consisting of Messrs. Meter, Mattot, Jones, McMath and Potter to make an investigation and report with recommendations. This report has been completed and it is this report that will be presented to-night.

The report comes with a long section proper to the fuel of the Washington University on the fuel subject. It goes on at length to explain why, for economic reasons only the soft Illinois coal of a smoky nature can be used in St. Louis for general steam generation. Gas, coke, hard coal, wood, oil, kerosene, are all used for various purposes and the reasons given. Then the report takes a scientific turn, and the proportions of consumable material in soft coal are given.

On the subject of smoke-preventing devices the report has a good deal to say, and explains that while there are hundreds of devices which have proved successful under certain conditions, no single plan which can be generally applied. In this practical results it will be necessary to first learn the conditions in each separate and individual case and then apply the respective devices given. The use of auxiliary appliances of devices which devices have, in other places been used with success.

The report concludes with drafts of two ordinances to be recommended to the Municipality. One of them provides for any establishment to emit through its chimneys a dense visible smoke to escape before the ordinance can be enforced.

The second recommendation calls for a commission to be appointed with power that a committee be appointed with power to make practical tests of the various devices, the cost to be borne by the owners of the devices.

The report concludes with drafts of two ordinances to be recommended to the Municipality. One of them provides for any establishment to emit through its chimneys a dense visible smoke to escape before the ordinance can be enforced.

The report does not say very well and comprehensively how to prevent smoke nuisance, but only shows conditional plans. It gives, however, all the information that is to be had on the subject, and comes as near to the solution of the difficulty as possible in St. Louis.

WHAT SMOKE IS.

THE CAUSE OF THE NUISANCE COMPLAINED OF IN ALL CITIES.

In connection with plans for devices to abate the smoke nuisance, an explanation of the cause and what smoke is will be of interest. A scientist thus presents the question: When there is a fresh supply of bituminous coal thrown on the fire, in a grate, for instance, in quantities sufficient to produce a large amount of smoke, a volume of vapor of black smoke or black smoke may be seen against the walls of the grate. This vapor is commonly called smoke, but, strictly speaking, is not smoke and does not deposit soot. The color of the vapor is not due to smoke but to distinguish it from smoke. This depends somewhat on the color of the background against which it is seen. It is seen to have various colors according to the shade against which it is seen. It is never transparent, and this smoke will be light or deep colored black, according to the amount of carbon escaping. If these particles are not carried away by the air, they will remain in the air and become a surrounding medium; they will fall to the ground in a cloud of dust and black smoke. This carbon will not escape as smoke, but is consumed in the furnace, the cause of the smoke nuisance in cities is the lack of combustion in the furnaces. If these particles were to be carried away by the air, they would result, as they are, in the different sections of the church or in the different parts of the city. It is this volume of gases and vapor, colored smoke, produced by smoking, and this smoke will be light or deep colored black, according to the amount of carbon escaping. If these particles are not carried away by the air, they will remain in the air and become a surrounding medium; they will fall to the ground in a cloud of dust and black smoke. This carbon will not escape as smoke, but is consumed in the furnace, the cause of the smoke nuisance in cities is the lack of combustion in the furnaces. THE SEQUEL TO A SCANDAL INVOLVING WELL-KNOWN AMERICANS.

J. Coleman Drayton and Hallett Alsop Borrow the Principals, and the Honor of the Former's Wife at Stake—She Is an Astor—Why a Proposed Duel Was Not Fought.

LONDON, March 18.—London, always ripe with scandal, has transferred what may prove to be the most tragic chapter of a social sensation, involving well known society people of two continents, to an ocean liner. The wife of Sir James Drayton, the third daughter of William Astor, the New York millionaire, Mr. Hallett Alsop Borrowe is a gentleman of high connections in England and New York, who stands charged by Mr. Drayton with being unduly interested in his wife.

The presence of the two gentlemen on board the same ship, bound for America, is but a chapter in the story of a high-life scandal.

Mr. James Coleman Drayton is the husband of Mrs. Drayton, who was Miss Augusta Astor, the third daughter of William Astor, the New York millionaire. Mr. Hallett Alsop Borrowe is a gentleman of high connections in England and New York, who stands charged by Mr. Drayton with being unduly interested in his wife.

For several years past Mr. Borrowe has been a most constant and attentive admirer of Mrs. Drayton, and carried his attention to such degree that Mr. Drayton left his wife and went abroad. In the summer of 1888, when Sir Astor interposed and an agreement was made whereby Drayton should live apart from his wife and receive $50,000 a year, while $15,000 a year would be given to the maintenance of his wife, and $10,000 a year in custody of Mrs. Drayton, subject only to the condition that she should never meet her husband again.

A Plain Precussion.

Either to adopt a plain precaution, one sanctioned by experience and approved by medical men, or to incur the risk of a malady obdurate and destructive in its various forms of intermittent or bilious tertian fever, or of malarial which of the two is to be preferred? For example, if malarial, Hostetter's Stomach Pills is specific. It acts promptly—does its work thoroughly and quickly. Its antimalarial taint is most effective. Emigrants and to denizens of regions in the West who may meet with the same difficulties, should be mindful of this and use the Pill as a safeguard. For example, for those who are exposed to the grippe, kidney and bladder troubles the Pill will be found no less useful than in cases of exposure to a high degree of heat, bodily or mental fatigue, it is also a valuable protection.

GREGGAINS' VISIT.

The California Middle-Weight Spends a Day in St. Louis.

HE THINKS SULLIVAN OUTCLASSES ALL THE OTHER FIGHTERS.

A High Opinion of Joe and Jack McAliffe—Fitzsimmons Should Not Fight Heavy Weights—Choyinski Invincible at His Weight—Base Ball, Racing and Sports in News of All Kinds.

Alex. Greggains, the California middle-weight, passed through the city yesterday on his way home from New Orleans, where he attended the recent battle between the latter and Peter Maher. Greggains says that he and Joe Choyinski, the California heavyweight, were to have encountered Charley Mitchell and Frank Slavin respectively at New Orleans. The latter pair, however, refused to box them, giving as a reason that they did not come down to fight, but merely to give an exhibition. Neither Greggains nor Choyinski, when they received the Olympic Club's offer, said that they would not encounter Mitchell and his partner until their arrival in New Orleans. Greggains said yesterday that nothing would have been more agreeable to him than to have met Mitchell in the ring to lose the bested. He said in his judgment, Jeff Morris, organizer, agreed to fight Jack O'Brien, the middle-weight champion of Wales, who was to have encountered Ted Pritchard. When the fight became known in New Orleans, the right to the title was given to the Olympic Club people secured my consent to meet O'Brien and I believe Fitzsimmons agreed to fight Pritchard. I delayed my departure for home a week, expecting to find Greggains in the ring again, but he had not returned. I succeeded in making a good showing with him, I was confident of doing the latter at least, and felt assured I would not be knocked out in six rounds. Jeff Morris, organizer, agreed to fight Jack O'Brien, the middle-weight champion of Wales, who was to have encountered Ted Pritchard. When the fact became known in New Orleans, the right to the title was given to the Olympic Club people secured my consent to meet O'Brien and I believe Fitzsimmons agreed to fight Pritchard.
